

a few notes

Topic: In the midst of our struggles

Daily Envision Employee Check-in

Hosted by Dr. Stefanie Simmons

This weekend, the world lost a beloved Marvel character: The Black Panther. The real hero was the person behind the character: Chadwick Boseman. After fighting privately for four years with Stage III colon cancer that progressed to Stage IV, Chadwick Boseman passed away this weekend showing us what persevering in the midst of a battle looks like. He made numerous hit movies, including Black Panther, Jackie Robinson, James Brown, and Thurgood Marshal and did countless community service projects while navigating his own personal battle with cancer. He kept his focus on what he could do to make a difference between surgeries and chemotherapy and showed us that even though we may be going through our own personal battles that we should remain focused on doing good and making a difference in the world.

Click here for related Source